Employer Responsibility

If you're an employer, you have responsibilities to create and manage a healthy and safe workplace, which includes:

- A legal obligation to meet the requirements of law and policy for your industry, including those of the OHS Regulation and related materials
- A role to play in enhancing health and safety culture and performance

Work Safe BC

Worker Responsibility

- As a worker, you play an important role in making sure you — and your fellow workers — stay healthy and safe on the job. As a worker, you must:
- Be alert to hazards. Report them immediately to your supervisor or employer.
- Follow safe work procedures and act safely in the workplace at all times.
- Use the protective clothing, devices, and equipment provided. Be sure to wear them properly.
- Co-operate with joint occupational health and safety committees, worker health and safety representatives, WorkSafeBC prevention officers, and anybody with health and safety duties.
- Get treatment quickly should an injury happen on the job and tell the health care provider that the injury is work-related.
- Follow the treatment advice of health care providers.
- Return to work safely after an injury by modifying your duties and not immediately starting with your full, regular responsibilities.
- Never work under the influence of alcohol, drugs or any other substance, or if you're overly tired.

Accountability / Penalties

Administrative penalties are fines imposed on employers for health and safety violations of the Workers Compensation Act (Part 3), the Occupational Health and Safety Regulation, and/or orders of WorkSafeBC, and for failure to take sufficient precautions to prevent workplace injuries or illnesses. Penalties are published as a deterrent and to highlight the importance of making workplaces safe.
